A. F. OF L. IN TWO FACTIONS ON IRELAND

Extreme and Conservative Groups In Effort to Draw Compromise Resolution

(By the Associated Press)
AUDITORIUM, DENVER, Colo. Warning against any agitation that might disrupt the American Labor movement, James H. Thomas, British labor leader, told the American Federation of Labor convention Tuesday that it could not solve the Irish problem. "For 100 years we in England have been confronted with the problem of Ireland and if we at home cannot solve that problem let me ask how do you, 3,000 miles away expect to solve it." Mr. Thomas addressed the convention as a fraternal delegate from the British trades union congress.

(By the Associated Press)
DENVER, Colo.—Efforts to prevent a widening of the breach between the two factions of Irish sympathizers among the delegates was being made Tuesday at the convention of the A. F. of L. Advocates of Irish freedom have appointed a committee to draft a resolution satisfactory to both the extreme and conservative groups of Irish sympathizers.

When this committee started to work T. J. Vind of Chicago, secretary of the labor bureau of the American Commission of Irish Independence served notice that two "official resolutions of the Irish Republic" must be incorporated or he would act independently in presenting the documents to the convention. The "official resolutions" called for a boycott, on British made goods and on all products made by English capital and the boycott of British insurance companies and similar firms. They also provided that the executive council of the federation shall compile a list of English made goods and firms backed by British capital and send it to every member of organized labor in the U. S.

A large faction of the delegates have announced opposition to the official resolutions and have presented to the committee a resolution demanding recognition of the Irish Republic by the U. S. withdrawal of British troops from Ireland and repayment by England of the $9,000,000,000 loaned to her by the U. S.

The delegates opposing the boycott resolution declared it would be detrimental to the labor movement.

Do You Remember When?

The Capital Times Inaugurates Feature of The Old Days and The Old Timers. Do you Remember Jud Stone?

THE Capital Times is herewith inaugurating a feature which should appeal to "the natives of Madison."

It is a DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN feature.

Many things have happened here since the first white person put in an appearance in these parts nearly one hundred years ago.

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN—Jud Stone used to be a familiar sight on the streets of Madison? Remember the cap he used to wear? Remember the "Gleanings" that he used to write for The State Journal twenty years ago.

It is quite fitting that we inaugurate this feature by recalling Jud. That was the subject matter of his Gleanings in the old days,—his writings had mostly to do with the old days and Uncle Jud used to be continually asking—

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN?

Send in your DO YOU REMEMBER WHENS. Send in something about the old days and the old timers. Lets recall some of the days of yore.

WHO'S KEEPING JAZZ MUSIC ALIVE; YOUNG NOT ALONE TO BLAME

Old Folks Like Snappy Stuff Too Says J. E. Meagher; Push Classic

Even the old folks like jazz, and many gray heads are numbered in the rush for new dance records. This, with the statement that some young people are exhibiting a taste for classical numbers was the answer given by J. E. Meagher of the Forbes-Meagher Music Co., to the query: Who is keeping jazz alive?

"Don't blame the young folks," he said. "We have been ringing the death knell of Old Man Jazz for more than a year now and he just won't die. He's popular with the older people as well as the young. The same is true of Hawaiian music. Our demand continues and we keep a good stock of those records that were supposed to be 'passe' long ago."

"Some phonograph fans are like first-nighters at a play," he said. "They must have the records while they are red hot. But it is pleasing to note that the majority of people are buying from the general catalog of records which contains over 6,000 different numbers. There is no doubt but that jazz would ruin the phonograph business by making people tired of their machines. In this way they would not get the real worth of their instruments. The purchaser would suffer just as much as the dealer.

"The Victor company is reluctant to issue jazz records. Its monthly list usually contains 25 selections, 10 records by world famed artists, five great orchestral records, five popular songs, of which one would probably be genuine jazz, and five dance records, two of these being waltzes and three jazz. Our salesgirls have strict instructions to 'push' classical or semi-classical records, for we know that in this way we are best serving our patrons."

Mr. Meagher declared that many customers who formerly purchased only jazz and popular music have become lovers of the classical in music. He declares there is no more money made in the classical selections, and that even in this age of jazz more than 60 per cent of the records sold in the company's store are classical or red seal records. He also lauded the music memory contests which he believes a great aid in instilling the love of good music into children. He declared it is astonishing what very young children ask for in records. They are made familiar with the great classics by the contests.

Monday night at the tabernacle Voliva issued his final warning. "The police," he said "will arrest any woman in this town that goes around the streets half naked. I will not bail you out either, and neither will your husband. You will have to pay your fine or work it out on the streets."

Judge Fines Man for Disobeying Health Law

Violation of the health regulations with regard to placarded houses was punished by Judge Hoppmann Tuesday morning when he imposed a fine of $25 and costs on Ernest Walker of Cambridge, who brought his infant son, who is suffering from the measles, to the Orpheum theatre here recently. Walker admitted that his house was placarded, but declared that his neighbors did the same thing. He said that he had no physician but that Dr. Amundson of Cambridge had placarded the house.

There is altogether too much disregarding of placard rules, according to Judge Hoppmann. The complaint was made by Dr. F. F. Bowman of the state board of health.

TIM MURPHY IS ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

Charged With Being Implicated in $350,000 Mail Robbery At Station

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—Timothy D. (Big Tim) Murphy, prominent labor leader and former member of the state legislature is alleged to have confessed Tuesday, according to postal authorities, that he was implicated in the $350,000 mail robbery at the Dearborn street station several months ago. Murphy's arrest and alleged confession followed a raid Monday night on the home of his father-in-law, William Diggs, when $98,600 in liberty bonds and $14,300 in cash was found in a trunk. Murphy is said to have admitted in his alleged confession that he acted as receiver for the stolen bonds and currency. SMALLEY TRIAL OPENED TODAY

Former Governor Philipp Is Summoned As Witness By State

LANCASTER, Wis.—The opening of the trial of Judge Sherman E. Smalley here today, marks the first time in the history of the state that a court magistrate has been summoned before the bar. Judge Smalley is on trial in his own courtroom charged with nine offenses. The charges are the outgrowth of campaign literature alleged to have been sent out from the home of Smalley in Richland Center.

E. L. Philipp, former governor of Wisconsin, who, it is rumored, tried to block the appointment of Judge Levi Bancroft to the bench now held by Smalley, has been summoned as a witness by the state. Bancroft held the bench for a year prior to the election, filling the vacancy created by the death of Judge George Clementson. Judge Smalley is charged with failing to use his name on his campaign literature and having made false statements which influenced the voting.

MOTHER OF SLAIN BOY IS IN MADISON

Mrs. Krugeer Declares Federal Officials Took Legal Papers and $45 in Cash

A demand that federal officials here turn over to her valuable legal documents, a watch and about $45 in cash, taken during a raid on her home in Owen, Wis., in 1918, in which two of her sons were arrested and a third killed when officers surrounded the home and forced the boys, alleged draft dodgers, to show their hand, was made by Mrs. Krueger in the offices of the U. S. marshal here Tuesday morning. Mrs. Krueger came to Madison from Owen Monday night.

Between convulsions of tears she declared that it was a "funny kind of a government" that would order a citizen killed for committing some little offense, and then take what belongs to him. "It isn't a government at all," she wailed.

She made the declaration following a charge that Deputy Marshal Joseph Gantz was the one who killed her son Ennis. Frank O'Connor, retiring marshal, denied the assertion.

"I'll tell you right here, Mrs. Krueger," he replied, "there's no use of you coming down here and starting an argument about that affair. Mr. Gantz was not even in Owen at the time your son was killed. Furthermore, whatever Gantz did was done under instructions."

Officers here do not know just where to lay their fingers on the missing papers, watch and money, but assert that they are probably in the hands of responsible parties. An investigation is being started to locate them. Mrs. Krueger charged that Mr. O'Connor, then marshal, took the watch and money from Ennis' body at the undertaker's. He denied having seen the articles. Deputy Marshal John F. LaMont said that he remembered having counted the money at the time and having taken a package of papers. He said he did not open them and did not know what they were. Local officials in Owen had a hand in the raid and it is believed that they have knowledge of the articles.

"We have taken thousands of prisoners and with them their personal belongings," said Mr. LaMont, "but this is the first time there has ever been anything reported missing."

Mrs. Krueger was dressed in black. She sat in the office of Deputy Will Touton, with a half circle of officers, including U. S. Marshal W. R. Chellis, Former Marshal Frank O'Connor, and Deputies J. F. LaMont and Will Touton, around her.

GOVERNOR VETOES INTERPELLATION AND RECALL MEASURE

LAW WOULD DO NOTHING NEW HE SAYS

Hanson Measure as Amended Is Covered By Existing Law, Says Governor

Gov. Blaine on Tuesday sent to the assembly a veto of the C. E. Hanson bill for interpellation and recall of appointive state officials which as amended would only amount to a recommendation by the legislature to the governor of appointive officers.

"This bill," said the governor, "when originally introduced, provided for what is popularly known as a recall by the legislature of appointive state officers. The bill, as it now comes to me, does nothing that cannot be done under the present law.

"The new section that would be added to the statutes provides that any appointive officer, after being interpolated, may be removed by the governor on the recommendation of anythe legislature. If the legislature has any reason to recommend the removal of an appointive state official, I assume the legislature would not recommend such removal without some valid reason. The executive under the present situation has the same power to remove in such case, without the recommendation of the legislature; and without this new section the legislature now has the power to recommend by joint resolution to the governor the removal of appointive state officers."

In the veto messag the governor also stated that such a law might be construed by the courts as to deprive the governor of the power to remove except on recommendation of the legislature and that, as the bill does not meet the original intention of the author, it should not become a law.

DOG TAX BILL TO GOVERNOR

Final Settlement Reached At Conference of Two Houses

The dog tax question has finally been settled. By result of a conference between the two houses, the senate on Tuesday receeded from its position on an amendment to the Olson bill and the bill now goes to the governor. This bill will make the tax $1 for male dogs and $2 for female dogs.

By a vote of 15 to 9 the senate killed the Skogmo bill providing a a service and retirement fund for state employees. An attempt to have the bill referred to the finance committee was defeated, 14 to 10. Sen. Buck led the attack on the bill claiming that it would not be conducive to thrift and that any man or woman who could not save money was "unbalanced."

The senate amended and engrossed a bill that in its present form would require future members of the Board of Control to live in Madison or vicinity.

The Matheson bill strengthening the compulsory school attendance laws was killed. Upon motion of Sen. Kuckuk the recently amended Teachers' Retirement Fund bill was recalled from the Assembly for making a correction. This will delay action in this measure for another week and may mean its death in the jaf the end of the session.

At the opening of the senate session, Chief Clerk O. G. Munson reported that there were 175 bills yet to be considered in both houses. In the Senate there are 62 senate bills pending and 19 assembly bills. In the assembly there are 53 assembly bills pending together with some 47 senate measures. This would indicate that both houses will make an effort to dispose of all important measures this week.

Voice Of The People

PRIVATE DETECTIVE AGENCIES

[To the Editor]: On the editorial page of your paper, bearing date of Monday, June 6, 1921, you published a leading editorial, entitled: "Industrial Espionage."

It is the opinion of a large number of people in the state of Wisconsin, and your readers in particular, that The Capital Times is fair and square to every question of interest to the people as a whole.

In the editorial referred to, it occurs to the writer that you have presented one side of this question, and it is nothing more than fair and right that the other side should be given an opportunity to present such facts as may exist pertaining thereto. In doing so, may I not be permitted to refer also to the practice of the private detective agency business, which has been linked in a way with the subject of this communication.

There is no question but that iniquities and injustices have been performed in the past, in the name of industrial espionage or private detective agency activities. The most experienced, most highly educated, most brainy men, and men known in their communities for their integrity of character, admit that the business has been traduced by practices that have been an injury to the public and unjust to their so-called clients.

The question that confronts both those who are opposed to private detective activities and those who favor them, is "What is the best, most sane, and most common sense method of eliminating and eradicating these practices from society?" The answer to this question revolves around the proposition of ways and means, and it is upon this subject of ways and means of properly and adequately safeguarding the public from the improper activities of private detective agencies, or private secret service agents, that I am addressing you.

In endeavoring to analyze this condition, may I not draw your attention to the fact that there are two suggested solutions of this problem. One suggested solution would be the passage of state laws that would be so restrictive that it would make it impossible for an honest man, or the director of an honest agency, to operate in the state. The passage of such a law would, in itself, admit that state regulation was the feasible method of handling this question. But state regulation of a nature that would confiscate and prohibit the activities of an honest agency, which sought to operate justly, would expose the citizens of the state to greater iniquity and injustice than have prevailed heretofore in the absence of adequate laws regulating the business.

The iniquities that have been laid to the door of private detective agency practice, have come to it because there have not been laws upon the statute books of the state, sufficiently and adequately regulating the business and furnishing to the people of the state proper and adequate protection therefrom. Permit me to cite in this connection, a hypothetical case: Suppose, until two years ago, the only laws upon the statute books of the state of Wisconsin, pertaining to the banking business, was merely a paragraph stating that "private bankers" were forbidden to carry concealed weapons; and suppose that prior to two years ago, in the absence of any further regulation than that indicated, unscrupulous individuals, who were looking for "easy money," who would not hesitate to trim close to the edge of a criminal offense, would rent a store and have a sign painted, "BANK," and place that sign over the door. If such individuals made money, it is natural to assume that those nefariously inclined, who had no scruples relative to public justice or equity, would do likewise. A parallel situation has existed in the private detective agency business.

The absence of regulatory laws, properly and justly regulating the business on a safe and sane basis, is responsible for the iniquities that have been practiced in the name of private detective business, or so-called Industrial Espionage. If a code of laws had been placed upon the statute books, of a sound and just character, years ago, that had followed a process of progressive evolution, the improper practices that have been laid to the doors of secret service agents, would have been curbed and curtailed in the interest of the public as a whole

The writer has given this subject considerable attention, thought, and investigation; has talked with a large number of people in the state concerning this matter, and almost invariably the conclusion is reached that sane, just, fair, sincere state regulation of a sufficient and adequate nature is the solution of this problem. It should be state-wide in character and it should be removed from local political influence for the following reasons:

By way of interrogation, may I not ask: "Could so-called regulation of the private detective business or industrial espionage business, be fraught with greater possibilities of injustice to the wage earners or the capitalist class, or any other class of society, if it was dependent upon the favor of a local political power?" The practical operation of such a process would be that the unscrupulous private detective would attach himself to the political party in local power, in order to ply his nefarious avocation, and he would pursue the same as long as his operations did not interfere with the designs of such local political power. In the opinion of all fair and honest men, there could not be a more iniquitous situation than a combination of an unscrupulous political power with an unscrupulous private detective agency. With exclusive state regulation, the power of public opinion would be more wide-spread and more general; would not be localized and would more truly represent and more justly perform in the interests of the people of the state as a whole. At the same time, a state law that grants to a local municipal board the veto power of a state-wide license matter, gives to that local board the power of political persecution in the interests of its own party. It is manifestly unfair and unjust to the people of the state of Wisconsin that a state licensing law, governing the activities of private detectives and secret service agents, should not be purely a state law. It is, indeed, a reflection upon the integrity and capabilities of state officials to have it otherwise. If the state officials are incompetent to administer, without the veto power of a local board, a state-wide law, how can it be that politically appointed officials of a minor character can exercise or sit in greater judgment, pertaining to a state matter, than the state officials themselves?

The present law pertaining to the activities of private detective agencies in the state of Wisconsin, provide for the issuing of a license by the Secretary of State, and after that license is issued, the regulations thereto are a state matter. The Pierson bill, now pending the Legislature at Madison, does not change the power of the state officials in any way in regulating the business. It merely removes the veto power of a local board of a municipality upon applications for licenses made to the Secretary of State and issued by him. It removes from the field of private detective regulations, the opportunity for collusion between politically favored private detective agencies in a municipality with a local political party, and places the regulation of the private detective business, solely and exclusively, without change of the present law, in the hands of the state officials.

The most reputable men in the private detective business heartily favor and earnestly urge state regulation of the business, of a sincere, bona-fide nature that will be progressively evolutionary, permitting the establishment upon the statute books of the state of Wisconsin, a code of laws regulating the business, that will safeguard all classes of the public from unjust practices by so-called private detectives. The clean, fair men in the business will help the state officials to enforce such laws, and the public are entitled to such protection.

Under proper and adequate state regulation, the honest worker in an industrial plant, or any official of an industrial plant, has nothing to fear from industrial espionage. Mind you, I say under proper and adequate state regulation. By that I mean regulation conceived in equity and justice and administered with fairness and honesty. Under such a code of laws, it would remove from the field of activities, the practices of those agents, whether they be industrial espionage agents, agents provocateurs, or any other kind of unscrupulous or dishonest so-called private detectives.

In conclusion, may I not draw your attention to the fact that your editorial, entitled: "Industrial Espionage", is every argument in the world why the Pierson Bill should be placed upon the statute books of Wisconsin as a law. It is a progressive measure, taking a step in the direction of adequate public protection. The present law with the Pierson Bill is not a complete code of laws governing the regulation of the business, but it is a beginning along lines that will give the public the cooperation of those engaged in the business, who try to follow honorable, clean lives.

I regret that I have taken up so much time in this matter but I believe you will agree with me that the situations that have existed in the state of Wisconsin in times past, warrant the utmost public enlightenment on this subject, and, being assured by friends of yours that you are disposed to be fair and square to both sides of any question, I am addressing you upon this subject as above.—The John E. While speaking about the conditions of the suffering Armenians, a short time ago, at the Hotel La Salle, in Chicago, Col. J. P. Jackson said: "We passed group after group amounting to hundreds of thousands of people camped out in the fields along the road, without any houses. The children were almost naked. The women were dressed in rags. They had almost no food. They were hungry."

A report from Cleveland H. Hodge, treasurer of the Near East Relief shown that in one week he acknowledged receipt of contributions amounting to $431,541.37. "Now Is The Time To Build New Homes"

HERE IS THE REASON—

Far sighted builders have grasped the situation and are going ahead. Building material is already getting short.

As the demand increases, prices will go up. Don't compare the situation with what it was before the war.

Prices steadily increased from 1910 to 1915. It is evident that a return to 1915 prices is out of the question.

HOUSE VOTES TO END WAR BY 305 TO 61

Porter Peace Plan Favored; See Delay In Agreement on Resolution With Senate

WASHINGTON — Whether the senate will accept the Porter peace resolution passed late Monday by the House as a substitute for the Knox resolution already adopted by the senate was uncertain today. Failure to accept would send the question to conference but as leaders have declared their intention of holding out for their respective measures there was no indication that a speedy agreement would be reached.

Adoption of the Porter resolution, which would terminate the state of war with Germany and Austria Hungary, came after two days of hard fighting. The vote was decisive 49 Democrats joining the Republicans for a total of 305 votes in favor of as against 61 opposing. Only one Republican, Kelley, of Michigan, voted against the resolution. The Knox resolution differs from the Porter resolution in that it would repeal the declaration of war. Opponents claimed this might be regarded as a repudiation of the war itself.

Debate on the Porter resolution centered chiefly about the question of whether Americans rights would be properly safeguarded.

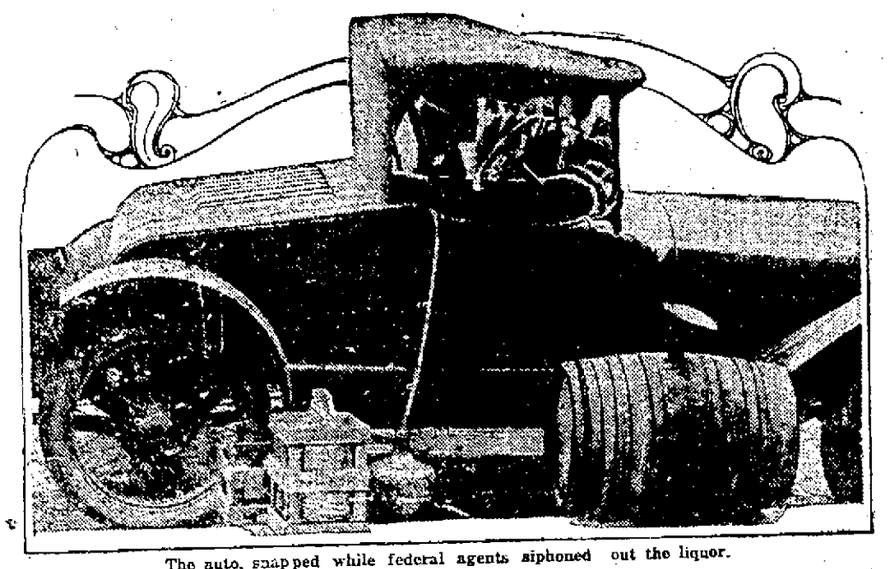
'Twas a Comfy Looking Auto and It Carried Lots of Joy, Too



The auto, snapped while federal agents siphoned out the liquor.

A keen olfactory organ in possession of a United States immigration inspector brought this sporty but honest looking roadster and its cargo of contraband liquor into the hands of the Volstead enforcement division of traffic regulation at San Diego, Cal. It had successfully passed through the city, but met up with the keen smeller in a county town on the main highway. Following his nose, the inspector probed around the car until he found where it appeared the upholstering of the seat had been tampered with. Loosening it, he reached in and his hand came upon a spigot. Further investigation disclosed that a copper tank with capacity of 80 gallons had been built on the classis under the turtle back. It also was found that there were scores of tack holes on the frame of the upholstering indicating frequent renailings and many successful trips from Mexico to United States points. Two men occupying the car were held for prosecution and the liquor siphoned out as shown in the photograph and stored as evidence in the case.

Ann Murdoch, Actress, Is Left Millions in Will

NEW YORK—The will of Alf Hayman, for many years general manager for the late Charles Frohman and after Frohman's death president of Charles Frohman, Inc., was filed for probate on Monday. The bulk of the estate, estimated at several million dollars, was left to Ann Murdock, actress, who in private life is Irene Coleman. Mr. Hayman left nothing to his wife, Mrs. Rose Hayman, nor to his sisters. Miss Murdock made her stage debut in 1908 in "The Offenders," when she was only 17 years old. She announced in 1916 that she had left the management of Charles Frohman, Inc.

MOOSE ROUND UP BIG CROWD

Many Attend Opening of Lodge Show Near Courthouse

With a "street of booths" and a big crowd coming and going all the time, the Moose roundup opened Monday night on the lot adjoining the court house. Its tents line both sides of Fairchild st., between Main and Doty. The show will be well under way tonight. The Ginger Jazz players from Georgia, a dance platform, circus acts, booths and industrial exhibits will be some of the attractions.

A floral parade on Thursday night is to be the feature of the roundup. Sixty decorated autos, competing for prizes, are expected to take part. All advertising is barred and the floral floats promise to be a spectacle of beauty. The winner in the popularity contest will be chosen queen of the roundup and will ride in the parade attended by maids and courtiers. The coronation party will bedeck the show grounds after the parade and the queen will be crowned by Mayor I. M. Kittleson. A Ford touring car will be given away on Saturday night.

In the vehicle parade, the Committee has made the following rules:

All entries must be sufficiently decorated to make them parade features. It is not necessary to completely cover all parts of the vehicle used but each part, such as the body, top, if there is one, the wheels and hood must be decorated. Natural or artificial flowers and foliage, bunting, lattice, paper festooning, top baloons or any other suitable material may be used. The Committee will furnish numbers to be be placed on each entry which will establish its place in line. It is suggested that all persons riding in the parade be in fancy costume, uniforms or light summer suits or dresses. Advertising matter is limited to one sign on each side of the car or wagon, giving the name only. This sign must not be more than 48 by 15 inches. The parade will start at 7 o'clock sharp, Thursday evening. The parade will form on Wisconsin Avenue and East Gorham Street. From Wisconsin Avenue the route will be W. Mifflin, North Carroll, Gilman, State, North Park, University Ave., Gilman, State, Carroll, Main, King, Blair, East Main, and around Capitol Park to Park Hotel corner and Court House, Fairchild street entrance after which the parade will break up. The following prizes are offered: $25.00 for the most artistic decoration; $15.00 for the most novel decoration; $10.00 for the best entry piloted by a lady driver.

Legal Technicality Bars Second Mooney Trial

SAN FRANCISCO—In refusing a new trial for Tom Mooney, Judge Harold C. Louderback based his decision on the fact that to entertain the writ of audita querela would be to make the people of California defendants, which is against the law. Judge Louderback made it clear that he himself regards Mooney as innocent, but that his only recourse now is in executive clemency.

As it seems probable that Gov. Stephens will refuse the pardon, it will be up to the next Governor, whoever he may be, to free Mooney and Billings. Meanwhile ex-Dist. Atty. Charles M. Fickert, who sent these innocent men to prison for life is being boomed as the next Mayor of San Francisco.

Harvester Co. In a Dividend Decrease

Reduction of the dividend rate on the International Harvester Company's common stock from 7 to 5 per cent is announced in advices just received by the Branch House in this city.

"This reduction of the dividend rate," said B. B. Reppert Branch Manager, "reflects the judgment of the Company's directors and executives as to the prospective conditions of the business.

"Through this action of the directors in dropping the rate to five per cent, the holders of this stock are brought back to their pre-war rate of return.

"Moreover this five per cent dividend upon the common stock amounts to only about 2.9 per cent upon the whole amount which the holders of this stock have invested in the business and this lessened cash return comes at a time when money is worth more than in pre-war days, the current bank interest rate being seven per cent."

BLAINE VETOES RAILROAD BILL

Says Senate Measure Invalid Because of Esch-Cummins Law

Gov. Blaine on Tuesday vetoed the senate bill which would give the railroad commission power to permit the discontinuance of any steam or electric railroad line in the state on the ground that such a measure contravenes the Esch-Cummins law. As a federal law supercedes the state law, Gov. Blaine holds that the act of the legislature would be invalid.

Says Gov. Blaine:

"Section 18 of the Esch-Cummins law contains the provision:

"'And no carrier by railroad subject to this act shall abandon all or any portion of a line of railroad, or the operation thereof, unless and until there shall first have been obtained from the commission a certificate that the present or future public convenience and necessity permit of such abandonment.'

"And the exception thereto made by section 22 is as follows:

"'The authority of the commission conferred by paragraphs 18 to 21 shall not extend to the construction or abandonment of spur, industrial, team, switching or side tracks, located or to be located wholly within one state, or of street, suburban, or interurban electric railways, which are not operated as a part or parts of a general steam railroad system of transportation.'

"The rule of law is so elementary that it requires no citations that, in a case where the federal government is vested with exclusive jurisdiction over a subject matter, the power of the state to legislate with reference thereto exists only so long as the federal power is dormant and unexercised. Among such powers vested in the federal government is the power over interstate commerce. Consequently, upon the enactment of the transportation act, all power and authority of the state to legislate with reference to the same subject matter was automatically suspended, during the period that the federal legislation remains in force."

"BISHOP" CLARKE IN ANNUAL APPEAL FOR CHILDREN'S PICNIC

Big Time For Kiddies Given By Volunteers of America July 14; Kick In, Says Clarke

B. B. Clarke today issued his annual appeal for the picnic to be given July 14 by the Volunteers of America for the poor children of the city. The "bishops'" appeal follows:

"Be it known unto you, that the time draweth nigh when the annual picnic given by The Volunteers of America for the Little Children is to be held. That instead of our numbers growing less, they increase, and the more we grow the hungrier they get at such a time.

"Last year we 'fed and watered' around 4,000 or 5,000. This year crop outlook is for 5,000 children, and it's going to require 15,000 sandwiches. These must be greased and we've got to have enough lemonade to quench the thirst of a herd of camels and as many elephants as live at the Zoo, to say nothing of the blue-berry pies that we consume at our pie-eating bout. And then, whoever attended a picnic without pop-corn and chewing gum! And thats a fairly good bill-of-fare.

"Without bringing the abstract of title to all the requirements down to date suffice it to say that you are one of the committee of 'diggers' created, dubbed and declared regularly installed, to help raise the breeze and get the commissary hittin' on six. A few friends have donated as much as $100 in times past. You notice that I said 'A few.' But if you will go down in your waumpum belt and unhitch a ten spot, or ever a 'V', we'll check you out at one hundred plus. Anyhow, come on in and help us out.

"Captain Griffith and his good wife Mary, along with a hundred other good sisters in Zion, will attend to the details on July 14, 1921, if you help sugar the green. And to that end we vouchsafe this 'Coaxer', and may the Lord help you to help us help the little children to a real old fashioned picnic.

FARMERS JOIN IN COAL POOL

Badgers Represented In Plan To Buy Coal In Co-operation

CHICAGO—More than 60,000 car loads of coal will be shipped to the farms of the middle west through a new marketing channel this fall if the farm pooling plan goes through. Representatives of the state farm bureaus in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and West Virginia in a coal conference here Monday were told how they could save $2 a ton, or $6,000,000 for the farmers of the corn belt by buying coal in a co-operative way through the farm bureau. Farmers in the eight states use more than 3,000,000 tons of coal a year. They would be allowed to place orders through county farm bureaus, and the coal would be shipped from the mines to the local station, where it would be unloaded into the farmers' wagons, delegates explained. A committee of four was named to work out the plan.

Waited Till the Cows Came Home

"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from gases in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist, our family doctor sent me to in Philadelphia, gave me no relief, although I took his medicine till the cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated. Luckily I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy then, and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Provisions of Hirst Bill Will Fall On Ford Owners Is Claim

Farmer members of the legislature are voicing their opposition to the Hirst bill, which provides for a two per cent tax on the value of automobiles. They claim that this law would hit hardest on the farmers, many of whom own Ford cars. The owner of a $750 car would have to pay a $10 license fee and a $15 tax, a total of $25. This measure if passed would raise more money than the state income tax law with the present offsets.

It is estimated by the state highway department that this bill would raise $8,000,000 this year and $9,000,000 next year. This would be a tax on the automobile owners of $2,000,000 than is paid by the steam railroads of Wisconsin.

The farmers of the legislature point out that last year 45 per cent of the automobiles operated in the state were Fords and at this season the per centage has increased to 50 per cent.

There are many indications that the Hirst bill will pass the state at this weeks session, but it will strike a snag in the assembly. The farmer members claim that the greatest damage to the highways of the state is done by trucks and there is no special effort being made to get a classification of these motor vehicles that would place a larger burden on them.

Movie Notes

Rubye de Remer.

It seems only fair that when an actress has been acclaimed as the "most beautiful blond in America," that picture fans should be given every opportunity of seeing her pretty face. That is one reason why I am showing this very newest picture of Rubye de Remer, who was designated by Helleu, the famous French artist, as our "most beautiful blond."

Miss de Remer has been given another title recently. She is now called by her friends out Los Angeles way, the goddess of the mountain, because she has chosen as her abode the highest point in the Hollywood hills, so far above the maddening movie throng that few dare scale it except in airplane or the most expensive flivver. She has named the place "Sunkist," but says that is not a true description, for the clouds park right in her front yard. But the day the photographer visited the sun was keeping faithful tryst, as the picture shows.

Miss De Remer is to be featured by Associated Producers in Frothingham productions. The first, from Oppenheim's novel "Passersby," has been completed at the Brunton studios. It may be called "The Black Fox" when it appears on the screen. Lewis Stone will play opposite Miss de Remer.

MUSICIAN GETS SHOCK

Jan Kubelik, the famous musician, was a recent visitor to the West Coast studio of Universal. It was his first peep into a studio and a bit bewildered, he watched Frank Mayo at work and later got a real thrill out of a serial case set in which a prop skeleton was hanging. This skeleton vibrates continually with the slight breeze from a high-up window. As Kubelik came suddenly into the dark of the cave his artistically long hair fairly stood on end.

GOSSIPY BITS

Anna Q. Nilsson once was model for such famous artists as Penrhyn Stanlaws, Harrison Fisher, George Danna Gibson and Howard Chandler Christy.

Two Italian-made films, "Theodora," from the famous Sardo play, and Gabrielle D'Annunzio's "The Ship," have been bought by Goldwyn for showing in this country.

Blanche Sweet has recovered from her recent illness and is back at her Hollywood apartment.

Mildred Davis got her first part in pictures by doubling for Louise Lovely during the latter's illness.

Clara Kimball Young, besides once having been a musician, has composed several musicel works.

TENANTS ORGANIZE TO PREVENT RAISE IN APARTMENT RENT

Threaten To Petition the State To Pass Rent Law; Appoint Committee

A tenants' organization, to prevent rent increases in the Varsity, Clifford and Norris court and Wayne apartment houses, was formed at a mass meeting of the residents of those buildings at the Association of Commerce rooms Monday night. Though he had promised to be present to hear the grievances of the tenants, H. E. Nichols, landlord, who has announced an increase of $15 a month in each of the apartment buildings, did not appear.

A petition to the legislature asking that rent laws be put in force in Madison was considered and will be asked in the event that Mr. Nichols does not come to terms with his tenants. Oscar Toebaas, of the law firm of Richmond, Jackman, Wilke & Toebaas, was retained as counsel for the organization.

An executive committee, with full power to act, was appointed and will attempt to confer with Mr. Nichols some time today to see whether a satisfactory settlement can be made. Mr. Nichols intimated that he would be willing to meet a committee of three. On the executive committee are: J. H. Kolb, D. L. Litt, R. A. Overholser, Mrs. E. M. Pardee and J. P. Wolf.

"What we want," explained one tenant, "is a reasonable explanation of why Mr. Nichols asks an increase at this time when commodities are declining."

The assessed valuation of Clifford court is $48,750, according to Mr. Toebaas, and the income from the 12 apartments, at the rate of $80 a month, the proposed new rent, and $10 a month for each garage, would be $14,400. This is an increase of 20 per cent. Mr. Toebaas declared that the only commodities in building that have not decreased appreciably in price are gravel, brick and plate, and as Mr. Nichols is not building, the prices of these articles do not affect the rent of the apartments. He quoted the latest figures from the Bank of Commerce of New York and from the Federal Reserve bank showing that an average drop of 43 per cent in all prices.

232 Lightning Fires In State During 1920

Three persons were killed and two stunned by lightning, on May 23, in the neighborhood of Madison, and much property destroyed, says the industrial commission.

Lightning annually kills more people than the railways, and causes a property loss of over eight million dollars, in this country.

In 1920 Wisconsin had 232 lightning fires, in unprotected buildings, with a property loss of $958,926.00, and 14 such fires in poorly rodded buildings, entailing a loss of $64,185. This is the largest number of so-called rodded buildings ever reported as struck by lightning. Our investigating of these cases showed defects in materials used, or in installation, or both.

The more common defects were lack of grounding to permanent moisture, insufficient number of points, lack of points at chimneys, cupolas, ventilators, spires, gables, dormers and other elevations, using too light materials, joints and connections not mechanically and electrically firm and secure, failure to connect down spouts, carrier, door tracks and other exterior metal parts with the rodding system, running metal clothes lines from trees to buildings (two cases), building silos and other additions without extending the rodding system rusting, corroding and breaking of conductors, only one ground rod.

Many of these defects are due to faulty sales methods. Some manufacturers of rods sell the material to hardware and implement dealers and garage men indiscriminately, without check or inspection. Tinsmith's plumbers and garage helpers will then go out to sell the rods in strong competition with other salesmen, and will install them. If the bid happens to be too low to make good profit, he will even up by using light and inferior materials, and save on points, connections, grounding, etc.

Cool Weather Is Boon; Saves Hose Of Madison Misses

The cool weather has proved a boon in more than one way for the girls of Madison. For one thing, it has halted the invasion of the pesky mosquito. This little pest is never welcome by any of the city's residents, but a new casus belli has been found against it by the younger generation of the feminine persuasion.

It appears that the mosquito has a bad habit of biting persons about the ankle. And one young miss asserted that during the warm spell of a week ago, she had ruined three pairs of perfectly good silk hose "scratching."

"Went right through 'em," she said. "I'm glad it's cold."

MARKET BILL VOTE IS CLOSE

Reactionaries Working To Defeat Measure At Wednesday's Session

Reactionary leaders in the senate are making a fight to kill the state marketing bill, which passed the assembly two weeks ago by a large vote through amendments. A hearing was given on this measure in the senate last week and the measure was laid over until Wednesday for consideration.

An amendment will be offered in the senate to strike from the marketing bill that provision giving the state market commission power to investigate the cost of producing manufactured products. This provision is aimed to show what profits are made on goods sold to the general public. The vote on the bill will be close. Many of the manufacturing establishments of the state have appeared before the senate against the measure. It is the belief that should the cost feature be stricken from the assembly market bill, the assembly will refuse to have anything further to do with a market commission measure at this session.

All of the income tax bills of the session are to be up for consideration on Wednesday. Senator Severson will make an effort to secure the passage of the sur-tax bill. There is some sentiment of passing this measure, instead of the Hirst 2 percent automobile tax. The assembly on the same day will consider the Dahl bill, which provides for many income tax reforms. Assemblyman Wallace Ingalls, Racine, will ask the legislature to kill all of these tax bills and pass a resolution providing for a legislature investigation of the entire subject. This committee would report to the next session.

NIGHT IN THE CELL HOUSE

Tier over tier they rise to dizzy height—
The cells of men who know the world no more.
Silence intense from ceiling to the floor;
While through the window gleams a long blue light
Which stabs the dark immensity of night.
The guard comes shuffling down the corridor,
Felt shod, and ghostly like a shade of yore;
His key-ring jingles and he glides from sight.
Oh, to forget the prison and its sears,
And face the breeze where ocean meets the land;
To watch the foam-crests dance with silver stars,
While long green waves come tumbling on the sand.
My brow is hot against the icy bars;
There is the smell of iron on my hand.

NUXATED IRON

Helps make rich, red blood and revitalize weak nerves

WEAK NERVES AND THIN BLOOD

RUIN HEALTH OF THOUSANDS WITHOUT THEIR EVER SUSPECTING THE REAL CAUSE OF THEIR TROUBLE—IRON STARVATION

An enormous number of people who ought to be strong, vigorous and in the prime of life are constantly complaining of weak nerves, headaches, pains across the back, disturbed digestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, a general run-down" condition, melancholy, bad memory, etc., all as a result of iron starvation of the blood.

There are 30,000,000,000,000 red blood corpuscles in your blood and each one must have iron. Without iron your blood also loses its power to change food into living cells and tissue, and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it and as a consequence you become greatly weakened both in body and mind.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach, because it is organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples and not metallic iron which people usually take. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

Forty acres of molders' sand, a substance extremely valuable for use in foundries, have been found on the farm of C. F. Cooley, Madison coal dealer, at North Freedom. The sand is of first quality and is an unusual find in Wisconsin. Foundries is this state have to have it shipped from New York.

State Geologist W. O. Hotchkiss, in company with Mr. Cooley, will go to North Freedom this week to make an examination of the sand.

Mr. Cooley was digging a vegetable cellar when he made the discovery.

Mounders' sand is worth about $2 a ton. The discovery will mean a great saving in freight charges if the bed proves to be extensive enough to supply foundries in this region.

The Difference of 150 Years

YOU'VE heard the story of Paul Revere — how he clattered out of Boston and spread the alarm to every Middlesex village etc. That was in April, 1775. It was an all night job. Today the Boston papers would slap extras on their presses and in the shake of a little lamb's tail the whole thrilling message would be in each home of the well known county.

This represents the advance of 150 years in the important business of spreading news.

The cry of "Extra—Extra" on the midnight air brings startled folks to their doors as once did the pound of a horse's hoofs and the breathless shout of the rider. Papers have supplanted the courier—multiplied his effectiveness many times—increased his speed a hundred fold.

How far back we would go without newspapers! We would remain in ignorance not only of events at home and abroad—but also of much that concerns us just as vitally—news of the very things that have to do with the personal, every-day life of each one of us.

Somebody might be selling a new, better and more economical food; or a utensil that would add immeasurably to our comfort and well-being; or some better material for making shoes or clothing—but we would never know it.

Modern advertising is a boon. It keeps our information up-to-date on the many things we need in order to live a profitable, happy and useful life in this age of progress.

Do you take full advantage of the advertising?

Madison Delegates at Masonic Convention

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The Grand Lodge of Wisconsin, Free and Accepted Masons opened its 78th annual convention Tuesday in the Scottish Rite Cathedral here with a business session and address by the Grand Master, C. E. Schaffer, of Madison. About 600 Masons of the state are in attendance at the 3-day session. Louis D. Meyer, 88, of Milwaukee, a mason for 55 years is the oldest in attendance.

Delegates from Madison are: Dr. D. P. Wheeler, W. W. Gilman, Frank Jenks, Roy Hinckle, August Rosen, Ralph Miller and John T. King, E. F. Gibbs also attended.

Did Poison Cause Death of Gallagher?

Did John Gallagher come to his death as the result of drinking something poisonous?

This is what Dr. C. H. Bunting and Dr. Daniel Hopkinson of Milwaukee are endeavoring to establish following the exhumation of Gallagher's body at the Forest Hill cemetery here.

The investigation came at the request of the Maryland Casualty Co., with a branch office in Milwaukee, who demanded that "the exact cause of death be determined" before the life insurance policy is paid. Young Gallagher dropped dead on the street in Rochelle, Ill., a few weeks ago, and was said to have died of heart failure. The company questioned whether he might not have drunk something which poisoned him.

The two pathologists declared that it might be impossible to determine the exact cause of death since the body has been embalmed for almost a month. Furthermore, they said, it will be difficult to determine whether he died of alcoholic poisoning because of the fact that the formaline, used in embalming, is itself composed largely of alcohol.

STOUGHTON—At the session of the local Odd Fellows lodge last evening, Rev. James W. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Frank Townsend, past grand of the lodge, who were delegates to the grand lodge session in Milwaukee, made their report. W. T. Logie of Superior was advanced to be grand master. Rev. Carl W. Ludwig, at one time Methodist pastor at Stoughton, was too ill to be present and another pastor was named by the grand master as chaplain in Mr. Ludwig's place. Mr. Ludwig is suffering from anemia.

According to the grand master's report, Rebekah lodges were instituted the past year at Wautoma, Stevens Point, Boyceville, Ellsworth, Forward, Dodgeville, Stanley, Bloomer, Webster, Burlington, New Glarus, Wauzeka, Bussyville, and Minong. Rev. Stanley Joslin, Methodist minister at Muscoda, retired as grand master.

There are 276 Odd Fellow lodges in the state. The total membership Dec. 31, 1920, was 22,994, the net gain for the year being 850. Hope lodge, No. 17, of Madison has 297 members.

Park City lodge, Kenosha, has 448 members. The receipts for the year amounted to over $320,000. There are nearly a million dollars of invested funds. The order has a total membership of 2,371,738. Over $7,000,000 were paid for relief in 1919.

There are 59 residents at the Odd Fellow home, Green Bay; 49 brothers and sisters and 10 children. There has been very little sickness at the home, the doctor bills for the year being only about $150. The children attend public school regularly and one of the boys was awarded a prize offered by the Green Bay Kiwanis club in a contest by 11 year old boys of the city. His average was 98¾. The ministers of the city hold service at the home nearly every Sunday.

As the expense of maintaining the home is sure to increase, the purchase of a farm is under consideration and a committee is to investigate the cost of a farm centrally located that might be utilized. A report is to be made at the next meeting of the grand lodge. James A. Fathers, former mayor of Janesville, is a member of the committee.

It was decided to double the per-capita tax for the home two years in order to start a fund for making improvements that will cost approximately $62,000 as at present contemplated. A heating plant will be constructed and extensions made to provide more rooms. Milwaukee Odd Fellows sought to obtain a loan from the grand lodge to build a home of their own, but it was decided that no money was available for that purpose. The Milwaukee delegates seemed decidedly opposed to the purchase of a farm. The next session of the grand lodge will be held at Eau Claire.

Fined For Swearing At Carnival Women

Denial that he swore at any one didn't help Paul Graevitch, an Austrian, in superior court this morning. Judge Hoppmann found him guilty of disorderly conduct and fined him $10 and costs or 15 days in the Dane county jail. The complaint was made by Mrs. Ray Walters and Mrs. T. J. O'Mera, both members of the Moose carnival Co., and Howard Angel, Northwestern road station agent. Graevitch went to jail as the money was not forthcoming.

MUSKEGON MAN HAD SUFFERED FIFTEEN YEARS

Riisberg Says He Had Forgotten What It Was To Feel Good—Health Restored

"Tanlac has restored me to such fine health that I actually can't tell now I have been in constant suffering for the past fifteen years," said Nels Riisberg, 57 Octavius Street, Muskegon, Mich., a valued employe of the Shaw Electric Crane Works.

"My suffering had nearly made a wreck of me and I had forgotten what it was to feel good. My stomach, liver and kidneys were all out of order and it looked like everything was wrong with me. I couldn't eat in peace for thinking of the pain and misery I would be in afterwards. My back hurt day in and day out and I was bothered continually with sick headaches. Sleep was broken up and I felt weak and sluggish all the time.

"Well, when a man has been bothered this way for fifteen years and then finds a medicine that sets him right I think it's time for him to talk for the benefit of others. Tanlac has got the world beat according to my way of thinking. It has simply made me feel like a brand new man and it seems like I have always been a strong healthy man all my life. My appetite is so big now I can hardly wait till my wife puts the meals on the table and nothing hurts me a particle. I have picked up considerably in weight, sleep fine and don't know when I have ever felt better. Tanlac is simply wonderful."—Adv.

"GIRLS! LEMONS BLEACH SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate. —Adv.

New Riding Habit of Covert Cloth

By ELOISE

Even though you do not want to go horseback riding or cannot, you will want to know what the smart new habits look like. Then there is the chance that you may want to wear one of them for a hiking costume or a camping outfit. The riding breeches are really a comfortable garment for roughing it and they may easily be made by the clever needle woman either from khaki, denim or gaberdine.

Here is a very nobby habit made of tan covert cloth. The coat is one of the long fitted models and is exquisitely tailored. A fancy vest of tan and brown barred materials adds a bright touch to the whole. The rough straw sailor, silk shirt and striped tie complete the costume. There are, of course, the smart black boots, which must always accompany a riding habit. For hikeing and camp wear these may be replaced by stout, high shoes.

NEW CLUES IN KABER MURDER

Silverware Hidden by Wife Found In Home of Fortune Teller

(By the Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, O.—Silverware declared by Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, to have been stolen on the night her husband, Daniel F. Kaber was murdered was recovered Monday night from the home of a woman for tune teller who said it was placed there by Mrs. Kaber three days before Kaber was stabbed to death two years ago by alleged hired assassins.

Mrs. Kaber her mother Mrs. Mary Brickel; her daughter, Marian McArdle and Mrs. Erminia Colavito, a midwife, are under indictment for first degree murder.

Following her arrest in New York, Miss McArdle is said to have told officers her mother removed the silverware after Miss McArdle had pried open the buffet door.

Another development is an alleged statement by the daughter of the fortune teller that she was in Mrs. Kaber's home when Mrs. Kaber gave a diamond ring and a watch which belonged to her husband to a man as part payment of a fee he claimed for committing the murder.

ROLLER SATERS IN OFFHAND COMEDY AT THE ORPHEUM

Jack and Sarah Feature Program with Jovial Novelty This Half

Jack McLallen and Sarah produce the rarest of offhand comedies during their roller skating act entitled "Whoa, Sarah," now the best act at the Orpheum. Sarah is Miss May Carson, a pleasant young lady, whose absence during most of the act is the cause of much joviality. The correctly balanced feet of Mr. McLallen while on skates enabled him to perform very gracefully upon a table not large in diameter. Jack Clifford and Fid Johnston have the ability to give a much better entertainment than they did last night. Most of their time was spent in a tiresome dialogue at the beginning. Clifford is a god singer, while Johnston played several violin numbers of large, rich tone. "Chrysamamums" is an exposition of juvenile songs and dances by Al and Evelyn Beatty. Jeannette Childs has several choice songs and a selection of dances. Gymnastic exercises are smoothly exhibited by the three Melvin brothers in the final act. The Worden brothers' agile feet keep them and other objects in the air for 10 minutes of the opening number.

Wingra Park

A number of young people in this vicinity who teach out of town are to spend the summer in Madison. Among them are Miss Julia Post, Madison st., instructor at St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn.; Miss Ruth Phillips, Jefferson st., a member of the faculty of Stout institute, Menomonie, Wis.; Miss Elyda Main, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Main, supervisor of music at Whitewater; Miss Alice Grover, Monroe st., who taught in the high school at Racine and Miss Marion Hicks, Van Hise ave., who has been at Janesville.

Mmes. F. A. Doerschlag and M. J. Flom will entertain the Woman's Aid society Thursday afternoon in Our Saviour's church.

BABY BORN ON PEACE DAY

After Mother Had Been Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Salisbury, Mass.—"For seven years I had a female trouble and such bearing-down pains I could hardly do my housework. The doctor said, 'If you can have another baby it might be the best thing for you but I am afraid you cannot.' I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my baby was born on 'Peace Day.' If women would only take your Vegetable Compound they would have better health. I always recommend it."—Mrs. Tracy Patten, 2 Lincoln Ave., Salisbury, Mass.

The experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as it is impossible for a weak, sickly wife to bring healthy children into the world.

Therefore if a woman is suffering from a displacement, backache, inflammation, ulceration, bearing-down pains, headaches, nervousness or "the blues" she should profit by Mrs. Patten's experience, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be restored to health.

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Montgomery

Every day now Billy was up with the sun and off before Button and Stubby were awake, and he always went to see the one place up the canyon—the meadow where Daisy was sure to be found.

And after a while she got in the habit of coming part way to meet him, if he was not there on time. Though, of course, she always pretended to be eating the wild roses that grew along the way.

Of course, Stubby and Button noticed that Billy Jr. spent less and less time with them and had ceased to plan about getting on east. This seemed strange to them, knowing how restless he had become after being for a few days in places which were more comfortable than this one.

"What can be the matter with him, do you suppose?" asked Stubby "It can't be that we have done anything to offend him, can it?"

"We certainly haven't done so intentionally,' replied Button; "and have you notives how absent minded he is, and how inclined to lie in the moonlight and dream. There is something on his mind that is worrying him, I am sure.'"

"Could it be,' said Stubby, "that he is afrajd we will have to give up going farther east on account of the hardships we would have to go through?"

"It can't be that," replied Button. "He is daring and venturesome and never gives up a thing he once undertakes."

"What is the matter with him then? There is certainly something, for he is not like himself." said Stubby with conviction.

"Let us watch and see where he goes tomorrow," said Button, "and perhaps we can find out that way. If we find that he goes away and broods alone, we will speak to him and make him tell us what is the matter, for certainly he knows us well enough to know that we will share his troubles whatever they may be."

So the next morning when Billy awoke, as the first beams of the sun struck his eye, he was not the only one awake, though his two chums pretended to be asleep.

First Billy, who was always neat, soused his face and beard up and down in the watering trough. Then he forced the water in and out through his nose and mouth until they were clean and pink and his teeth as white as though he had used a brush. Then he rolled and rolled in some nice fresh straw that made his coat as clean as a whisk broom could have done, after which, without a look back or a bite of breakfast he turned at the lane and ran up the canyon in the direction of the meadow at the other end.

"He certainly does not appear very downhearted," said Button, "and why all this fuss over his toilet if he is going to mope alone? No, no, Stubby, we were wrong. There is nothing worrying Billy, unless it is a love affair, for men never primp when they are worried about business."

"I know they don't said Stubby, "but I have never known Billy to fall in love, and somehow, I had always thought of him as a confirmed old bachelor.'

"That is just the time to get suspicious. When you think you have your friends fixed for life, that is just the time they always go and do something to upset your opinions of them. Let us hurry after Billy and see if he is going to meet his fair lady love."

Wanda Hawley in "The Outside Woman" and Buster Keaton in "The High Sign" will be the attractions at the Strand Wednesday to Saturday.

AT THE MAJESTIC

Can you "guess" what the other man is thinking? Is a man who thinks murder equally guilty with the wretch who actually commits the deed? These and many other ethical problems made "The Witching Hour" one of the greatest stage successes of al times. The Augustus Thomas triumph has now been filmed as a William D. Taylor Realart special at the Majestic Theater. To interpret this gripping play of a strong man's will Mr. Taylor needed —and secured— a really all-star cast.

A Hank Mann comedy and George Williams, harpist, complete the program.

Currant Buns—Five cups of flour, three-quarters cup sugar, one yeast cake, one-quarter cup lukewarm water, one cup butter, three eggs, one-quarter cup chopped citron, one cup currants, caraway seeds (optional), one teaspoon salt, milk Dissolve yeast in water. Beat eggs, one cup of flour and dissolved yeast cake together and let rise in a warm place. Let stand six hours or over night. Rub butter into flour, add sugar, citron and currants and caraway seeds. When sponge is light, combine mixtures, mix thoroughly, cover with a cloth and let rise again. Fourm into buns, brush over with a little milk and bake 25 minutes in a hot oven.

Mayonnaise of Chicken—One cold boiled chicken, one-half cup aspic cups mayonnaise, one-half cup aspic jelly, endive, one cucumber. To make the aspic jelly boil a knuckle of veal, which has been cracked in several places, for five or six hours. Season with carrots, onion, parsley, salt and pepper. Remove scum as it rises. Strain and let set. Cut the chicken into small pieces. Remove skin and ends of bone. Dissolve jelly and add to mayonnaise when cool. Put the chicken on a wire tray and pour over the sauce with a tablespoon. When the sauce is set pour over a little plain jelly. Arrange chicken on a bed of lettuce and surround with endive and sliced cucumber. Any jelly left in the mold may be cut into cubes and used as a garnish.

SUGGESTIONS

Bottles Containing Poison may be marked in the following way: To a heaving tablespoon of very coarse sand add sufficient dry china cement and water to make a rather thin paste. Coat the entire bottle, except the label, with this paste. It will dry hard and fast on the glass of the bottle, and is a very excellent safeguard against the bottle being taken out in the dark by mistake. The sand is felt under the lightest touch.

An excellent table pad, which may be used in place of a flannel or asbestos silence cloth, may be made by sewing together eighteen or twenty sheets of newspaper and covering them with heavy muslin.

In Cooking a Chicken or Turkey in the oven roast it in the usual way until nicely browned; then turn it back upward and let it remain so until done. This causes the gravy to run into the breast, making it deliciously soft and tender.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married about twenty years and have five children, the oldest being seventeen years old. I have a very lonely time, for I have to stay at home about all the time with the children. My husband is a foreman in a mill and is away from home all the time in the daytime and stays away from home nearly every night until late.. If I say anything to him about staying at home he flies up and says that he has business at the lodge or somewhere else every night.

While he is very good to me and the children and we get along well, it is mightly sad and lonely for me and the little children at home.

What would you advise me to do?
LONELY WOMAN.

You have much to be thankful for since there is harmony in your home. Many women have the trouble you are having, but in addition their husbands abuse them the little time that they are at home.

Try to be more of a companion to your husband. Do not question him about the places he goes. Since you have learned that he will go in spite of your objections, you might just as well let him have his own way without a word from you.

Doubtless he has interests which he would gladly discuss with you. If you are able to entertain him as you did when you were sweethearts you will find that he is less eager to spend his time away from home. You might also find it helpful to entertain his friends for dinner or for the evening. Do not let your home be sad and lonely; bring life into it and see if your husband does not find more enjoyment there.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My little boy will be six years old soon and is large for his age, measuring forty-eight inches tall. I am at a loss to know what kind of clothes to make for him when he starts to school. Woul you advise Buster Brown suits of wash material, waist and trousers of wash material, or waist and serge trousers?

K. G.

I would advise waists and serge trousers. Boys like to get out of the baby stage and clothes of wash materials make them feel like babies Your child will be much happier in the serge trousers.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty years old. I have been going with a fellow five months who is seven years my senior. I do not really care for him, but he takes me places and shows me a good time except about going to dances. All my girl chums go and I have always gone and like to dance. The dances are given by a lodge and all nice people go, but this fellow won't go.

There is another fellow I like real well who is about my age. He always goes and often asks me to dance with him. He would go with me if I would let him. But the day after I have been to a dance the other fellow gets angry and says he is going to quit because I was at the dance or because I danced with this other fellow.

What would you advise me to do, go to the dances and enjoy myself or stay at home and never go any place just to please the other fellow?
IN DOUBT.

Since you do not care for the young man who objects to dances, I would not advise you to give up dancing on his account. He has no claim on you and you should feel free to do as you want to.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you think a boy of ten years is old enough to ride a bicycle?
G. P. E.

Yes, I think a boy of ten is old enough for a bicycle.

Tour Wisconsin in Interests of Pageant

With "Illinois Day" set for August 6 and "Wisconsin Day" August 8, the automobile men of Chicago, comprising the committee of 100, headed by Thomas J. Hay, have completed plans to blaze a Pageant of Progress trail, covering every town of more than 500 people in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin. One hundred cars already have been pledged. The party will create interest and bring upwards of a half million motorists to Chicago during the pageant, to be held on the Municipal pier July 30 to Aug. 14. The date for the initial tour has not yet been set.

Sweet Dreams

Their coming battle doesn't seem to bother either Jack Dempsey or Georges Carpentier when they hit the hay for the night, according to reports from both camps. The gladiators sleep like babes. Wonder what they dream about? It must be tough to have a nice little dream like Carpentier's having above and then be summoned rudely to enter on another day's grind to get in trim to meet the bird you've licked once—in your sleep. The picture of Dempsey was taken recently while he was going through some exercises to strengthen his stomach and back.

BASS SEASON OPENS JUNE 15 AT DAYLIGHT

Today Is Last Chance To Get New Tackle for First Day of Season

All you real Anglers! If you haven't overhauled your bass tackle this spring you have just today left for that job for the season opens in the morning. The kind Wisconsin legislature had some fisherman members and as result the season in southern Wisconsin opens hereafter on the fifteenth of June as soon as the bass can see your bait.

The bass are now off the spawning beds but the water is still sufficiently cold so that there should be about two or three weeks of excellent bass fishing. This is the first time in years that the anglers around Madison have ben able to start after the fighting bass until the water was too warm to make the biting half way decent.

With the new law you can take the boat Wednesday morning and then you have only a fisherman's horizon of possibilities to limit your catch. If you are lacking a good bait or if you ned a good line, today is the time to fix up your outfit so that you can be among the first day men tomorrow morning. We wish you luck.

MINOR CHANGES FOR FISHING AND HUNTING FEES MADE BY SOLONS

Fee for Deer Tags Is Raised From 10 to 25 Cents By Legislature

No change of consequence in hunting or fishing license fees is likely to be made by the legislature. In general, proposed changes have been defeated. All bills except one are out of the way.

Both houses have passed a bill to increase the fee for deer tags from 10 cents to 25 cents. On the estimated sale of 60,000 deer tags, the 25-cent fee will produce a slight revenue. This is not the primary purpose, however, as under the old 10-cent charge the state lost money. The change is made more to prevent the deer tag account from showing up on the wrong side of the ledger than to put funds into the treasury.

Trappers' Fee May Rise

In the assembly a bill is pending to increase the trapper's license from $1 to $2.50. If this bill is enacted, a considerable revenue will be produced, as about 25,000 trappers' licenses are issued each year.

Here is an opportunity to increase greatly the state conservation income. Resident hunters, for example, pay only $1 a year and 165,000 licenses are issued. Resident fishermen pay nothing despite the fact that the expense of propagating and plaiting fry and protecting fish is very large.

Nonresident fishermen to the number of 35,000 or 40,000, crowd into the state every year, paying a license fee of $2 for all fishing except trout, and $1 in addition for trout fishing. The charge for nonresident hunting licenses is the highest. It is $50 for all game, and $25 when deer are not to be hunted. But the hunters keep coming

More Fees—More Service

The large numbers who fish in lakes and streams or hunt over the tremendous domain of Wisconsin show that considerable sums could be collected at trifling cost to anglers and hunters. A resident license for game fishing could be charged, for example, if the state would agree to devote all resident license fees to propogating fry and planting them more extensively, to the end that the sport, now steadily poorer as a whole, be actually improved. A dollar could be charged for a deer tag if the state would undertake to protect deer still more effectively.

Under such a plan, money derived from nonresident licenses, trappers' license and some miscellaneous sources would be available for planting trees on state land along the shores of lakes fishing, in addition to making the angler's sport more enjoyable, and it would preserve game, especially deer and partridge, by providing more "cover," their natural protection.

There are very plain indications that the next legislature will be asked to readjust the charges for hunting and fishing licenses, with view to making it feasible for anglers and hunters alike to pay their due share of the expense of maintaining their favorite sports and with the understanding that all income derived from resident fishing and hunting licenses shall be devoted exclusively to maining the best of fishing and hunting.

Carpentier Will Watch Dempsey for Miscues

MANHASSET, N. Y. — Georges Carpentier when he meets Dempsey expects to land the first telling punch. In a conversation today with his friend and adviser Captain Mallet, he said he would drop Dempsey if the latter made one single mistake.

"The challenger," Captain Mallet said, "is not afraid and thinks he has better than a even chance to win. If willingness, a clear eye and a deadly right hand coupled with speed and endurance can win Georges thinks he will be the world's champion.

"He realizes Dempsey will be the best man he has ever met, but he is going in determined to do his best and if he loses he will take it like a man.

COMMISH ISSUES WARNING TO STATE BOUT PROMOTERS

No Matches Can Be Held Without License By Commish Says Liginger

Warning that boxing bouts or exhibitions can be held only by licensed clubs was issued by the state athletic commission on Monday, following a report received that a number of exhibitions were scheduled in various parts of the state on July 4 in connection with picnics, homecoming events, etc.

"Under the law boxing bouts or exhibitions can be held only before clubs which have been licensed by the commission" said Chairman W. H. Liginger. "This includes exhibitions of all kinds and the fact that no admission is charged has no bearing on the case. A sparring match held in connection with any picnic, stag, homecoming celebration, circus or sideshow is a violation of the law and the principals as well as promoter are liable to prosecution. Boxers who engage in these illegal matches are also liable to suspension by the commission.

"Boxing out of doors is a direct violation of the statute which provides for matches only in buildings."

Pugilist Chokes Mad Dog With Bare Hands

PHILADELPHIA — The heroism of Jimmy Murphy, welterweight pugilist, saved a number of children on Monday when he choked a mad dog to death with his bare hands. The dog had raced toward a crowd of children. Murphy leaped into the dog's path. The dog attacked again and this time Murphy's hands closed on its huge neck. The fangs found his arms, but he brought all his strength into action and the dog gradually weakened and died.

Janesville Tractors Win Tenth Straight

JANESVILLE, Wis. —The Janesville Tractors won their tenth straight game Monday, defeating Centralia, Ill., 13 to 2. The Tractors are on a two weeks invasion of the Prairie state. They play Centralia there again today, engage the Sangamo Electrics at Springfield Wednesday; appear at Decatur against the Staleys Thursday, Saturday and Sunday; and are at Moweaqua Thursday.

A Tip on The Fight From a Madison Fan

"I look for Dempsey to win in nine rounds," says Joe Rupp of University Co-op fame. Joe has long been a follower of Dempsey but believes that Carpentier has him beat when it comes to foot work.

"Dempsey is the more experienced fighter," continued Joe. "While Carpentier has the edge on foot work I feel sure that Dempsey will wear Carpentier down by the ninth or tenth round and then will come the knock out."

E. G. Trainor will tell you his bet tomorrow.

NO PENALTY FOR WALLACE'S LOCAL FIASCO

State Commish Only Gives Otto and Vince Moha a Warning

Appearing before the Boxing Commission, Otto Wallace and manager, Vince Moha, were admonished for not notifying Boyd of Wallace's condition the day of the Ward-Wallace fight. Wallace came to Madison on the day of the fight and without warning told Boyd at noon that his left the back of his neck was so lame that he would not be able to enter the ring. Battling Loukes had to be put in as a substitute at the last minute.

Otto Wallace and his manager Vince Moha, appeared before the commission on Monday to show cause why they should not be penalized for their tardiness in notifying the Monona A. C., Madison, that Wallace would be unable to box on June 7 against Bobby Ward. Otto developed a fine crop of carbuncles the day before the bout but failed to notify the promoters, taking a chance of getting past the physical examination given by the commission. He was turned down with the result that the promoters had to hustle around at the last minute for a substitute. Because of his good record in the past Otto was let off with a warning but he will not be allowed to box again until the crop of carbuncles has been harvested.

Johnny Herzog and Kid Moha of Oshkosh, were suspended for putting up unsatisfactory bouts at Wisconsin Rapids recently. They will be given a hearing in the near future.

Jack Claims Secrecy Dope Is All Wrong

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The "No training" sign probably will remain hung up at Jack Dempsey's camp until Thursday or Friday, according to indications today when the world's heavyweight champion will swing back into his conditioning grind with the prospects of resuming boxing along with the other gymnasium routine. Until full training is resumed the public will be denied admittance to the camp.

Dempsey explained his layoff by saying he was so satisfied with his condition he thought it would do him good. He appeared annoyed at reports that the camp had been closed to the public so he could engage in secret training.

"I don't know where they get the idea of this secrecy thing" the champion said. "I don't need any training this week. I shall start late this week and keep it up to the finish. I am not trying to put anything over. I never felt better in my life.

Final Terms Settled for Freedman-Leonard

BENTON HARBOR, Mich.— Arrangements are being completed here for the bout Monday afternoon July 4, between Sailor Freedman, and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion.

MARKETS

WHEAT PRICES TAKE SLUMP

Favorable Weather Report Has Bearish Effect On Market

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Favorable weather for harvesting had a bearish effect on the wheat market Tuesday and so too did reports of increased country offerings. Misgivings about the outcome of voting on proposed anti-pit legislation at Springfield tended also to weaken prices. Houses with eastern connections led the selling. Initial figures which ranged from 1½ to 2½ cents lower with July 1.37½ to 1.38 and Sept. 1.25½ to 1.26 were followed by setbacks all around.

Subsequently reports of black rust in South Dakota rallied the market somewhat. It was said also that exporters were exchanging July for cash. The close was heavy 1⅜@4¾c net lower with July 1.35¼@½ and Sept. 1.25½@¾.

Corn

Corn gave way with wheat. After starting ⅝ cents to 1¼ to 1⅜ cents down including July 63½@64¼ the market continued to descent.

Reports that the crop outlook on corn was excellent emphasized the downward tendency later. Prices closed weak 1¼ @ 2⅛ @ 2¼ net lower with July 62⅝.

Oats

Oats were depressed by the action of other grains opening ¼@½@⅝ cents lower July 38⅝ and then undergoing a further decline.

STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Extension of Rally Is Followed By Selling Movement

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The trend of prices at the opening of Tuesday's stock market suggested an extension of Monday's rally, a number of leaders showing gains of 1 to 1½ points. This was immediately followed by a resumption in large volume of the recent selling movement in rails, oils and equipments. Northern Pacific reversed its initial gains of one point with an abrupt decline of 2 points and Great Northern lost 2¾. Mexican Petroleum fell 2 points, Baldwin Locomotive 1⅜ and General Asphalt 1. Steels, motors, sugars, tobaccos also reacted.

Strength of investment rails and weakness of junior transportations and equipments, notably "Soo" and Pullmann were among the conflicting features of the final hour. The close was irregular.

Effort To Be Made To Mangle and Emasculate Marketing Bill Through Parliamentary Maneuvers.

THE marketing bill, recently passed in the assembly, will be up for action in the senate to-morrow.

The people of Wisconsin should understand what is likely to happen to this measure in the senate.

The members of the senate who have been faithfully serving the interests of big business at this session will seek to defeat the bill in spite of the fact that in every campaign since 1914 marketing legislation has been promised to the farmer.

They will not seek to defeat the bill openly. They will not DARE to do that. That is not good politics. They will seek to esmasculate and mangle the bill through parliamentary maneuvers which they think the poeple will not comprehend.

Amendments will be introduced to the bill. The amendments will be introduced for no other purpose than to KILL the bill. The privilege serving members of the senate will seek to hook on such amendments to be returned to the assembly as will cause an end to marketing legislation at this session.

The Capital Times will give its readers the significant roll calls. The people, however, should not allow skulking legislators working under cover to escape full responsibility through recourse to any tricky parliamentary maneuvers.

WISCONSIN FARMER SEES STRAIGHT

THE Wisconsin Farmer usually sees straight on fundamental issues. The Wisconsin Farmer sees plainly the dangerous precedent that has been set up by this legislature in flouting the right of petition. The Farmer has the following to say concerning the refusal of the assembly to receive petitions protesting against the records of Assemblymen Stokes and Catlin in the assembly:

"This 'hurl-back-with scorn' attitude on the part of the assembly toward the petitions of farmers is one that is apt to make the plain people wonder as to whose government this is, after all. If the farmers are to have their views and wishes thus flouted and summarily thrown out of court by their public servants they may well wonder whither we are drifting. However, they should not lose faith. Bad and dangerous as are such precedents of violating the bill of rights, they need not be viewed with undue alarm. This very arbitrary and asinine action on the part of the house has served the purposes of the petition better than if they had been perfunctorily received and filed away quietly and forgotten, as such communications too often are. It has served to call attention to the betrayal of the people's interests by these representatives as scarcely anything else could have done. And there are other members like them, others who were also elected as particular representatives of the farmers and the common people, who find it more to their liking to hear the call of tax-dodgers and privilege-seeking interests than the honest justice-seeking voice from home which is only occasionally and modestly raised.

"But a particular responsibility is laid upon the people of the districts represented by these two men. It is up to these districts to vindicate the bill of rights and the constitutional privilege of petition which have been so shamelessly flouted in their names, by emphatically retiring these men to private life at the next election. The people of the state will expect this much of them. It is a question of great principle, without consideration as to any degree of responsibility on the part of these representatives. The freedom-loving, progressive people of the state can give only their moral support to this course; the responsibility rests with the people of these districts. If they do not strike a blow in vindication of the rights of all the people it will be an unfortunate instance of American citizenship failing to rise to the duties and demands of a critical situation and hour."

AN IMPORTANT ROLL CALL

FROM day to day come reports from all parts of the state of farmers who have received barely enough to pay the freight on produce shipped to market. The farmers of the state should remember the following members of the legislature who refused to condemn the Esch-Cummins law and refused to ask congress to repeal the law:

Atcherson of Lincoln; Biglow of Ashland; Bullis of Eau Claire; Caldwell of Columbia; Catlin of Outagamie; Cole of Douglas; Cook of Marathon; Downs of Bayfield; Edwards of Waukesha; Engel of Milwaukee; J. R. Farr of Price; M. Voice Of The People

FOR THE GOOD OF HUMANITY

[To the Editor] There is undoubtedly, among people in general, a very hazy idea as to the purpose and practice of the chiropractor. May I, as a friend to anything that helps or relieves suffering mankind, answer in your paper questions that I have heard asked many times, and which I also have asked until within a few weeks?

One says: "What is a chiropractor anyway and what does he do?"

Another: "What and why is all this fuss and talk about chiropractors?"

Still another: "Why will chiropractors not take a 'license' for doing their work? That would seem a simple enough matter."

The chiropractor is a bone-doctor. The word is derived from two Greek words meaning "hand done."

When people are ill or unhappy from a thousand and one causes—the nerves are affected and they often draw sections of the spine out of place; and suffering naturally follows as a result of disordered spine and nervous system. The efficient doctor in this line of work can instantly discern any bone in the body that is out of place, and with one deft movement of his skillful hands can "adjust" the dislocated member. Sometimes only one treatment will give great and permanent relief.

Is not this a blessing to mankind? Will any good, right-minded person be antagonistic, or even perhaps criminally negligent of anything that is a help to his brother man?

Why are chiropractors not willing to pass examination, and be licensed to do their work? They are willing! They would be glad to do this, and so eliminate from their ranks any who may be trying to exploit the people, by doing work for which they have not careful specific training.

Such imposters are found in every profession, and hurt and hinder the march of truth.

The chiropractor, however, wishes to be examined and licensed by those competent in this specific line of work. The best M. D. in the world is not competent to judge the work of the chiropractor, because it is of a different school. Their knowledge is different, their methods entirely different, they look for results in a different way.

One is a fine cabinet maker, the other a violin maker. Each man must understand the nature of wood and how to get the best out of it; but the application is very different, and each man must be free to work out his thought. They are both doing something for the good of humanity. It is enough! What reasonable chance is there for one to have authority over the other?

This is just where the "shoe pinches." The M. D.'s insist that chiropractors look to them for license to do their work.

When we consider that the work of the bone-doctor is entirely different from that of our old friends, the ordinary doctors, does it seem fair or rational that the latter have authority over the former?

Let the chiropractor take his license from those competent in his own school—and he will conform.

Doctors! You earnest and sincere men! Don't hook the new cow out of the pasture—it gives good milk!

God grant that both schools will look kindly over the dividing fence of simply different methods of helpfulness, and rejoice together that knowledge is widening, human sympathy deepening, and the brotherhood of man growing staunchly from the roots of helpfulness, cooperation, and the one unselfish gladness of anything that relieves or prevents human suffering! Anything that will make less the pitiful groan of the world.—May Greenwood.

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

Human liberty owes much to the North of England, to something solid and uncompromising in the temper of Yorkshire, something cool and clear in the temper of Westmoreland and Cumberland, something level and reasonable in the temper of Lancashire. The Manchester Guardian, in being the spokesman of liberal Lancashire for the one hundred years ending May 5 of this year, has contrived with increasing power to be the voice of liberals everywhere. In its early days it outspokenly advocated parliamentary reform against a resistance of established stupidity which can be matched but once or twice in the history of the English; through the middle of the century and onward it held stoutly to Cobden and Bright, supported Gladstone's more enlightened policies, stood from the first for John Home Rule, fought imperialism without relaxation—during the Boer War magnificently—and came through the Great War—that acid test of the liberal intelligence—with a remarkably clear record for a newspaper which approved of England's going in. Even more important during its second half-century than before, it naturally owes much to the personal integrity and capacity of Mr. C. P. Scott, editor since 1872 and owner since 1905, whose long control has served to give the Guardian its masterful unity and continuity. At the same time, the paper has been more than a personal organ. It has attracted to it many kindred dispositions among journalists and public men, and it has found enough readers to constitute, throughout the United Kingdom a substantial block of public opinion which cannot be stampeded by the noise of the herd periodically thundering off in this or that direction under the influence of this or that frenzy. What seems most interesting—most encouraging—about the career of the Guardian is the fact that it has not been an endowed organ, maintained by some philanthropist or other, but a normal business enterprise, which has paid its own way out of its own lawful earnings.

Two qualities have, perhaps most to account for its influence. One is its admirable combination of local interest with international outlook. While the provincial newspapers of Britain do not carry the burden of neighborhood small talk which is demanded of such papers in this country, still the Guardian has never neglected the aairs of Manchester. But the affairs of Manchester, as a manufacturing center for the world, happen to reach far; and the Guardian has let its eyes run along all the routes of trade, and so has continually directed the opinion of the British trading classes to the remotest consequences of their activities. The other quality of the paper which must be noted is its admirable temperateness of language and argument. This is not, however, though ordinary opinion says so, a characteristic English trait. The islands have made their mark on the world not half so much by sober reason as by eccentric vigor, impetuous courage, stubborn perseverances, lyrical rages. Yet the Guardian, holding its course in the midst of so much tumult, has employed no methods more ruthless than those of simple candor, no accents more loud than those of civil truth. That these methods have been effective it is for the violent and bad-tempered to deny and for the judicious to study and understand. For there exists no other daily in any other country which ranks with the Guardian. It is the greatest daily newspaper which our civilization today has to its credit.—The Nation.

On The Side

ALL WRONG

I do not like those one-piece suits
The girls go bathing in,
They're really most disgusting and
They constitute a sin.
I do not like the auto rides
Folks take on Sabbath day,
And I don't see why they should go
And dine in a café.
I do not like the cigarets
Nor pipes that people puff,
And as for golf and pinochle,
They should cut out that stuff.
I think the movies ought to close
And theaters as well,
And my opinion of croquet,
I can't find words to tell.
I do not like amusement parks.
They're rough and most uncouth.
I think the scenic railways are
Just ruining our youth.
I do not like a single thing
That fills one's mind with glee,
For I am a reformer and
The world looks punk to me.
